Page 40 1 page. 2 THE COURT: And then the following transcript on March 15, 2018, at Page 63, Line 6, 3 "There is such a thing as prebankruptcy planning. 4 5 And efforts to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors on the eve of bankruptcy would often justify 6 7 dismissal for cause. But the asset protection 8 plan here was formed in 2012." 9 MR. HURST: Uh-huh. THE COURT: And then it goes, "It was 10 just planning." But that Court when it made its 11 12 ruling at Page 64 where it says that it has no 13 household income was unaware of the testimony that I heard here regarding the additional income that 14 15 was hidden in Mrs. Zilberbrand that actually was income of Mr. Zilberbrand. And so I had cautioned 16 all the parties regarding that line of testimony, 17 because I understand that there is some additional 18 motion in the bankruptcy court. I don't know what 19 it is. But the last thing that we would want here 20 21 would be for debts that had been discharged to then be opened up again if the bankruptcy court 22 realizes what was really going on. 23

I do not find your client

Page 41 credible about his lack of ability to make income 1 2 in light of the fact that he's hiding assets from the bankruptcy court and that he's speaking out of 3 both sides of his mouth to this Court. He has testified on several different days several 5 different ways about what it was that those two 60 6 some and 90 some thousand deposits were. And so 7 if I don't find him to be convincing about that, 8 then you don't have a sufficient amount of 9 evidence to win this motion. So I would encourage 10 you to address that. 11 MR. HURST: Fine. Okay. Let's say 12 for the sake of discussion that you consider the 13 $63,000 in 2018 to be income to him. It's gross 14 income set off against expenses for trying to do 15 that. Just like in the 2017 return there is a 16 schedule and there are expenses that were incurred 17 relative to these -- to the production of income. 18 THE COURT: And then I find him to be 19 lying about that. When I say "lack of candor," I 20 21 mean he is lying. And so --MR. HURST: Lying about --22 THE COURT: -- let me be clear. Let 23 me be completely clear. And so you call into

Page 45 1 payments --THE COURT: Which he hasn't made a 2 3 single payment back. MR. HURST: Because he's had no 4 And with the exception of that one 5 payment that was received, the $63,000 in 2018, 6 which is the only relevant time period here, 7 because we're not seeking modification back to 8 2017, okay, he has borrowed that money and he has 9 cannibalized the remaining assets that he has to 10 pay that rent. And there's been no evidence to 11 contradict that. And if you take the money that 12 13 he claims to have borrowed over the past year or 14 so, the $50,000, the money that was residual from the $63,000 and the money he has cannibalized from 15 his remaining assets to pay his expenses, that's 16 how it's been done. 17 Now the Court's critique of 18 Mr. Zilberbrand and his lifestyle is nothing --19 20 that's the Court's opinion. None of that was sufficient to give rise to the Court finding that 21 he was not credible. 22 THE COURT: But that Court didn't 23

know about the income he was hiding under his

4	THE COURT: Which is twice the
5	amount nearly twice the amount of income that
6	he was stating in the agreed order where it was
7	reduced to $2,750 that he was making.
8	Anything further?
9	MR. HURST: Excuse me. You know,
10	Counsel pointed to comments that the Court made in 11	the pretrial. The Court made a comment to me in 12	pretrial with Counsel present that it was clear
13	that he was cannibalizing his assets to sustain
14	these payments and the lifestyle. Okay. So
15	what's good for the goose is good for the gander.
16	That's and that is absolutely consistent with
17	what the evidence has shown. He has cannibalized
18	those assets. Those assets are gone and for the 19	Court to suggest he should be held to $33,000 in 20	net payments against $45,000 in gross income and
21	he should find some way to live on taxable income
22	of a thousand dollars a month is absolutely 23	preposterous. It's contrary to public policy. He has a right to live, too. That's why child
